

Typical arrangement for integrated compact silos in school buildings:

These arrangements with “live bottom” generate effective volumes and can be used when an outside steel silo will disturb the existing architecture. The distance between the silo conveyors are typically 1 to 1,4 meters and they feed one or two vertical conveyors. This type of arrangement is possible due to the vertical conveyor technology (patent pending).

